

What are my options if I am denied admission to the College of Business?

- First and most important, you should meet with an advisor to discuss what classes you will need to take or repeat in order to be admitted to the College of Business (if possible).
- Second, you may want to reevaluate your selected major. If you are not successful in the “pre-business” courses, this may be an indication that you need to select a different academic path.
- Third, you may appeal your denial to the College of Business by completing an Admissions Appeal Form available in BAS, N219.
