We will hear from state Rep. John Ray Clemmons, chief future of AAUW and the work we do on behalf of all women.

This convention will address the systemic change that has hindered the success of faculty from diverse groups and change faculty demographics closer to the broader U.S. population.

In order to go and grow to the next level, it takes changing your life structure and the way you do things—permanently. Open the fact that you are great, you are awesome, and you have what it takes to be the best!

Tabling event encourages women to remove their makeup and embrace their natural beauty.

All events are free and open to the public unless otherwise indicated.
