Coming attraction

Many homecoming activities precede Louisiana- Monroe game

By Rhonda Wright King rwking@mtsu.edu

You are invited to pack your bags for the “Bright Lights, Blue City” of Homecoming 2010, Oct. 22-23. Your alumni relations office wants to start spreading the news of a Homecoming Playbill full of great events that will honor the traditions of the past while making memories for the future.

Graduates from the Class of 1960 and earlier are invited to join members of the Golden Raiders Society for the Golden Raiders Reunion on Friday, Oct. 22. Registration is at 2 p.m. at the Tom H. Jackson Building, followed by a campus tour and a social hour. The Golden Raiders Society Induction Dinner begins at 5:30 p.m. The Class of 1960 will be inducted into this esteemed society, honoring 50 years since graduation.

Watch the Homecoming Parade, led by actor Lane Davies ('72), from the best view on campus during Mixer on Middle at the Alumni House. This party is open to all alumni, friends and fans. Announcing the parade at Mixer this year will be Chip Walters ('85), the Voice of the Blue Raiders, and WSMV

Alumni Summer College's 'A Song's Life' is a classic

By Rhonda Wright King rwking@mtsu.edu

Sixty-two alumni and friends from 10 different states returned to campus for three music-filled days during the third annual Alumni Summer College June 23-25.

The Office of Alumni Relations was proud to serve as host for the event, which featured the College of Mass Communication's recording industry department. This year's theme was “A Song's Life,” and participants learned about songwriters, studio recording, performances, publishing and the business of a song.

Alumni Summer College began June 23 with a panel discussion of the Department of Recording Industry. Hal Newman, Cosette Collier, Beverly Keel ('88), Stephanie Taylor and Melissa Wald explained the department's major concentrations of songwriting, audio production, music business, legal and copyright, and publishing. The history and the future of MTSU were presented by Suma

Clark ('70, '77) and Patti Miller, assistant vice president for campus planning.

The first evening was spent at the downtown Murfreesboro Center for the Arts, where dinner and class member introductions were shared. The evening's entertainment was the Jack and Diane Show, where Jack and Diane Untz hosted fellow songwriters for a private in-the-round show. The show included the duo Watson and Nash, whose song “Bring It On” will air during Fox Sports' NFL coverage this fall, and MTSU graduate Eric Paslay ('05). On track to be one of Nashville's hottest songwriters, Paslay wowed everyone with his performance of “Less Than Whole,” co-written with Big Kenny of Big and Rich.

The next morning began with a show-and-tell session from MTSU assistant professor and songwriter Newman, BMI songwriter Wood Newton, ASCAP songwriters Casey Kelly and Bonnie Baker, and Dr. Loren Mulraine, Mulraine, recording industry department chair.

Centennial plans will feature History Walk

Granite bands to show milestones; Countdown archive is on web

By Randy Weiler jweiler@mtsu.edu

As MTSU makes preparations for its Centennial Celebration in 2011-12, many efforts are under way with various committees planning creative and festive ways to commemorate the university's 100th anniversary.

One group, the History Walk Committee, formulated and implemented plans for a 100-year, history-laden, new quad area between the new Student Union and College of Education buildings.

"Milestone dates in history will be inscribed in granite bands that will radiate around the new grass quadrangle," said Patti Miller, assistant vice president for campus planning.

"The bands are organized by decades," she said, adding that they will range from a 1911 marker on the south end of the quad to a 2011 marker at the north end of the quad.

"Granite bands that continue past 2011 will be reserved for milestones in future years," she said.

Significant name changes (Middle Tennessee State Normal School in 1911, Middle Tennessee State Teachers College in 1925, Middle Tennessee State College in 1943 and MTSU in 1965), all 10 university presidents' names, enrollments through the decades, student-body organizations, the first alma mater, fight song, dorm rules from 1932-33, logos, major anniversaries (50, 75, 85 and 100), and much more will be highlighted.

In future years, the Student Government Associations may be able to designate "class quotes" that mark their year, said Miller and campus planning colleagues Jamie Brewer ('01) and Brian Dell, who serve on the committee with Faye Johnson ('65, '69) in Academic Affairs, Tom Tozer in News and Public Affairs, Dr. Jim Williams of the Albert Gore Research Center and Suma Clark ('70, '77), formerly of Publications and Graphics, also serve on the committee.

Contractors Messer Construction and Pinnacle Construction are performing the work as part of the contract, the campus planning trio said.

Find Centennial Countdowns on the web

Former News and Public Affairs staff member John Lynch isn't just a history buff; he's a history hound. For nearly five years before retiring June 30, Lynch chronicled a number of the university's chapters of history through Centennial Countdown, part of the monthly "Middle Tennessee Record" television programs. Lynch, who now is enrolled in the Ph.D. in public history program, and his talented graduate assistants recorded live and incorporated rare video footage into the segments.

These can be found at www.mtsu.edu/news/MTR/index.shtml. Then click on either the YouTube icon or "Browse all MTSUNews videos."

Some samples of Centennial Countdowns include:

- "Three figures broke racial barriers at MTSU," a segment saluting Olivia Woods ('65, '74), the first African-American student in 1962; Mary Scales ('67), the first black faculty member; and the late Dr. James E. Walker, the first African-American president;
- Stories about beloved Dr. Bob Womack ('48), Albert Gore Sr. ('32) and Whitney Stegall ('37);
- "MTSU Salutes Heroes" (veterans); and
- "King and Hampton, female pioneers," recognizing Jeanette Moore King, the first female student, and Martha G. Hampton, the first female administrator.

Major changes

President names Bartel provost, Petryshak VP for ITD and CIO

Bartel

Petryshak

From staff reports

In late spring, MTSU President Sidney A. McPhee announced two major administrative appointments. These include:

- Bruce M. Petryshak, who was named vice president for information technology and chief information officer, replacing Lucinda Lea ('74), who retired. He has served as CIO for Bowling Green State University in Ohio since 2001; and
- Dr. Brad Bartel, who was named provost in academic affairs, assuming the position held for six years by Dr. Kaylene Gebert. He previously was president at Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colo.

"MTSU is extremely fortunate to attract someone with Dr. Bartel's extensive administrative and academic experience," McPhee said. "As a sitting president and former provost, he brings the kind of comprehensive view of institutional operations and the academic enterprise that is needed to help us in our efforts to position MTSU for the future."

"Over the course of his professional career, Mr. Petryshak has worked his way through the ranks of information technology," McPhee added. "He comes to us very highly recommended and has the kind of professional background and experience that will allow us to continue the outstanding work started by Lucinda Lea in providing world-class IT services for our campus.

McPhee said Petryshak has more than 30 years of experience in a variety of areas of IT. In his former position at BGSU, he provided leadership for more than 140 professionals and 160 student employees. MTSU's IT department includes 75 staff members and 22 students.

Bartel has more than 35 years of experience in higher education, including more than 25 years of senior-level administrative leadership at four major public universities.

MTSU held a national search to fill both jobs.

$27K gift boosts Horne Scholarship

By Tom Tozer ttozer@mtsu.edu

Career diplomat Harry Horne decided not to give his wife flowers for her birthday. Flowers die, he said.

Instead, he gave her a gift that would last forever: Horne contributed another $27,000 in her honor to the MTSU Foundation, rounding up the Harry J. and Betty Lewter Horne Endowed Scholarship to $50,000. The fund provides scholarships to students in the Department of Political Science.

Horne, a native of Canada, served four years in the U.S. Army, followed by a 35-year stint in the Foreign Service as a Canadian diplomat.

"And I made my fortune teaching as an adjunct professor at MTSU," he quipped.

"I like to say Harry is a registered alien," interjected Betty, his wife of 30 years. "And he's an 'adjunk.'"

"I always wanted to live in a place with four seasons, good medical facilities and good transportation," he said, referring to middle Tennessee. "Oh, yes, and Betty's from here."

Harry taught political science at MTSU from 1983 until 1990.

"(Former MTSU President) Sam Ingram and I were having lunch, and he asked me if I would like to teach at MTSU. He told me they never had anyone teaching international relations who had experience abroad. I told him, 'You're on.' That was the nicest thing that ever happened to me, because I still have contacts at the university. I get invited to things, and I enjoy mixing with the students.

"I have a couple of degrees, and no one gave them to me," he noted. "I worked to get the money to get my bachelor's degree. Nowadays it's hard for people to find a job and save enough money," which, he said, is one reason he created the scholarship.

Horne received his bachelor's degree in commerce from the University of British Columbia and his MBA from the University of Toronto.

To become a Horne Scholar, a student must be a graduate of a Tennessee high school and major in international relations and/or global studies at MTSU. The applicant also must have a 3.0 GPA, and an incoming freshman must have scored at least a 25 on the ACT exam to qualify. The award is for one academic year. Recipients may reapply in subsequent years if they meet the scholarship criteria.

"I kept reading in the paper about how tough it was to get money to go to school," Harry said.

"That's how the idea came along—to heck with giving her more flowers," he laughed, turning to his wife. "It's not a lot of money, but it's a legacy that lives on forever."

Fall Phonathon calls will begin Sept. 12

MTSU's Office of Development and current students will begin their annual fall Phonathon on Tuesday, Sept. 12.

The schedule includes Sept. 12-14, James E. Walker Library and University Honors College; Sept. 14-27, Jennings A. Jones College of Business; Sept. 28-Oct. 12, College of Liberal Arts; Oct. 21-31, College of Mass Communication; Nov. 1-15, College of Basic and Applied Sciences; and Nov. 16-Dec. 2, College of Education and Behavioral Sciences.

The Phonathon aims to build MTSU's alumni participation through yearly gifts from alumni, parents and students by informing them about the current needs on campus, said Meredith Kerr, associate director of annual giving.

These writers shared stories and sang some of their songs, including Newton's "Riding with Private Malone" by David Ball and "What I Didn't Do" by Steve Wariner; Kelly's "Anyone Who Isn't Me Tonight" by Kenny Rogers and Dottie West and "The Cowboy Rides Away" by George Strait; and Baker's "My Sister" by Reba McEntire.

Wald, MTSU assistant professor and owner of Copyright Solutions, taught the class about the business of a song by explaining components such as copyrights, residuals and marketing contracts.

After lunch in McCallie Dining Hall and some free time on campus, the class moved into the studio, where 2007 Young Alumni Achievement Award Winner Brady Barnett ('97) explained each step of the recording process while artist Benton Stokes recorded his latest song. The class viewed how artists lay vocal, piano, guitar and bass tracks.

The group dined with the flying pigs of Broadway at Jack's Bar-B-Que in Nashville, where they elected twin sisters Karen Monefeldt Caton ('65) and Louise Monefeldt Bastedo ('65) co-presidents of the class before crossing the alley to hear MTSU honorary professor Vince Gill play at the Ryman Auditorium. Many class members were able to meet Gill in the famous alley as he was headed to the show, which also kicked off the Bluegrass Nights at the Ryman series.

The Center for Popular Music was at the top of the June 25 morning agenda. Lucinda Cockrell ('79), coordinator of research collections, said the center, celebrating its 25th anniversary this fall at homecoming, is an archive and research center devoted to the study of American popular music from the prerevolutionary era to the present.

Martin Fisher, manager of recorded media collections, led a hands-on lesson in wax cylinder recording when he recorded the whole class singing the American classic "Oh! Susanna," using equipment and a recording process common in the 1800s.

The remainder of Friday was spent at different music venues in Nashville. The class met in the Country Music Hall of Fame Library, overlooking the Nashville skyline.

Hatch Show Print Manager Jim Sherraden ('83) delivered an impressive presentation on the historical letterpress printing shop. Since 1879, Hatch Show Print has been producing posters and is famous for its pieces that promote musical acts from Bessie Smith to the Beastie Boys. Class members were thrilled when Sherraden displayed a personally designed limited-edition Alumni Summer College poster to commemorate the event. Each participant was given one as a souvenir of the program.

Graduation also was held in the Hall of Fame Library, where participants sang the alma mater before touring the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum. The spirit of Elvis also was felt as the group toured RCA Studio B, where Presley recorded more than 150 of his songs.

Alumni Summer College ended at the Wildhorse Saloon as class members ate dinner, shot pool and line-danced to today's top hits. Doug McDonald ('54) got a treat when the DJ played the song he wrote about the Wildhorse Saloon.

Participants ended the three days excited about MTSU's future and proud of their alma mater. First-time attendee Larry Baskin ('76) summed up Alumni Summer College by saying, "This event has recharged me as an alumnus. I feel a greater affinity toward MTSU and appreciate that."

The fourth annual Alumni Summer College will be held June 22-24, 2011.

Signal Society adds Carroll, LaLance, Moser

The MTSU Office of Development celebrates three donors at the 40-year level of the Signal Society.

Longtime MTSU supporters Carole Carroll, Robert LaLance and Donald Moser join an elite group of MTSU alumni and friends as donors who have given to MTSU for 40 years. All three donated to MTSU for the 40th distinct year during the 2009-10 fiscal year.

The Signal Society is the MTSU Foundation's giving recognition society which honors faithful annual supporters to the university, beginning at 20 years of giving and at five-year increments thereafter.

"We appreciate the gifts and continued commitment to the success and future of all MTSU students by these three longtime friends and supporters," said Meredith Kerr, associate director of annual giving for the development office.

MTSU notes passing of retirees LeDoux, Jones, Hawk

Professor emeritus David G. LeDoux and associate professor and MTSU alumnus Herbert C. Jones ('63), both have passed away.

LeDoux, 83, a member of the Department of Art faculty from 1956 until 1994, passed away May 25 at Middle Tennessee Medical Center in Murfreesboro. He was a painter who came to Murfreesboro in 1956 to teach drawing and painting at MTSU.

Jones, employed in the MTSU Department of Accounting from 1967 until retiring in 2005, died July 30 in Murfreesboro.

Other longtime personnel who have passed away include alumnus Floyd Richard "Dick" Hawk ('54, '58), 78, who was employed in MTSU's counseling services department from 1972 until retiring in 1997. He passed away July 16.

'Exciting, inspiring' feelings remain

New alumni president seeks your ideas as MTSU heads into Centennial

Twenty years ago, almost to the day, I was one of four young women from McNairy County who set out on an adventure that we had planned for months and our parents had dreaded for years.

We were teenagers on our summer trek to tour our proposed university of choice, Middle Tennessee State University. Upon arrival, we discussed other universities and opportunities they had offered us, but I knew in my heart MTSU was for me, thanks to Ron Malone. Twenty years later, it is as exciting and inspiring as I remember as a 17-year-old walking in The Grove for the first time.

I am honored to be serving as president of the National Alumni Association to nearly 100,000 alumni across the world. Your National Alumni Association offers a variety of activities for all generations, from Alumni Summer College to young alumni nights at area vineyards to local sports events, just to name a few.

The association also is the base financial support for our Student Ambassadors. This elite group of students serves as hosts/hostesses for the university in various capacities. Their passion for MTSU is very addictive, and we appreciate their hard work in communicating the attributes of our fine university.

As the year progresses, I will be calling on alumni far and wide for advice, suggestions and direction on how to help us grow and prepare for the upcoming Centennial celebration in 2011. This is a major landmark in our university's history that will require mountains of planning and execution. Feel free to contact me at any time with thoughts and comments on any subject you feel compelled to discuss.

Please take a moment and recall your fondest memories of our great university. I promise if you take some time to come back to campus, walk through The Grove and attend an event that is of interest to you, your heart will be filled once again with the Blue Raider spirit.

Go Big Blue!

MTSU National Alumni Association President Beth Barber Jones received her B.S. in 1999. She has been a sales rep for Intervet Schering Plough Animal Health since 2004. She and her husband, Andy ('96), live in Columbia, Tenn.

8 chosen for board of alumni association

All will serve 3-year terms

Eight MTSU alumni have been chosen to serve on the National Alumni Association Board of Directors. Each new member, selected from written nominations, is asked to serve a three-year term.

"We are excited to have eight new board members for 2010-11," said Ginger Freeman, director of the Office of Alumni Relations. "New personalities and backgrounds, blended with experienced members, should create great ideas and energy. I look forward to an exciting year ahead."

The new members include Muffin Dixon ('95), Memphis, Tenn.; Jim Dunlap ('57), Dunwoody, Ga.; Paul Fulcher ('07), Manhattan, N.Y.; Barton Harrison ('80), Franklin, Tenn.; Denice Rucker ('78), Murfreesboro; Latrece Sankey ('94), Antioch, Tenn.; Chip Walters ('85), Murfreesboro; and Mike Williams ('82), Franklin, Tenn.

The mission of the National Alumni Association Board of Directors is to develop and foster sound relationships between MTSU and its alumni and to be a strong force for the advancement and support of the university.

Nominations for the 2011-12 Board of Directors will be accepted beginning in January 2011.

Please support your Alumni Association by nominating someone to serve. Join the new alumni online community and update your contact information by visiting mtalumni.com.

Distinguished Alumni 2010-11

Gwyn, Taylor, Witherspoons, young alum Latterell earn top honors from nominations

From staff reports

MTSU's National Alumni Association has announced its Distinguished Alumni and Young Alumni Achievement Award recipients for 2010-11.

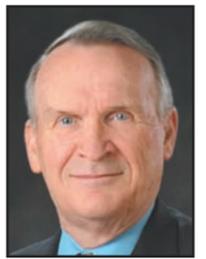

The Distinguished Alumni recipients include: Mark Gwyn ('85), Professional Achievement; H.G. "Pete" Taylor ('60), Service to the Community; Don ('64) and Hanna ('64) Witherspoon, Service to the University. The Young Alumni Achievement honoree is Michael Latterell ('03).

Gwyn, a McMinnville native now living in Nashville, is serving as Tennessee Bureau of Investigation director for a second term. He has spent his entire career in public safety, including 22 years with the TBI. As the director, he has focused efforts on technology and drug-related crimes to increase the safety of Tennessee residents.

Taylor, who lives in Belton, Texas, has more than 33 years in the service to the U. S. Army. He has been tireless in his devotion to community service. His dedication to nonprofit organizations and higher education includes many organizations including the Texas Boy Scout Council, chamber of commerce, Coalition for Family Involvement, American Cancer Society, Food Care Center and many others. Taylor's efforts have garnered much recognition including the naming of "Pete Taylor Day" in Killeen, Texas.

Gwyn

Taylor

D. and H. Witherspoon

Latterell

The Witherspoons chose to retire in Murfreesboro 10 years ago after lengthy careers in private industry. They since have dedicated their retirement to the betterment of MTSU through volunteering and holding leadership positions in the Alumni Association, Foundation, Blue Raider Athletic Association and other university departments as well as establishing the Rutherford County Alumni Scholarship.

Latterell, a Nashville resident, has had a fast rise to success in the recording industry. He has had five Grammy nominations as an engineer, earning a Grammy for Best Bluegrass Album with singer/songwriter Jim Lauderdale's "The Bluegrass Diaries." A recent project with Dailey & Vincent reached No. 1.

The MTSU Alumni Association annually seeks and accepts nominations for the Distinguished Alumni and Young Alumni Achievement Awards. The selection is made from candidates who have distinguished themselves by a high level of service to their profession, their community and/or MTSU.

Gwyn, Taylor, the Witherspoons and Latterell will be recognized during this year's Homecoming Game activities Oct. 23. Plans to honor them and their accomplishments are set for the May 2011 Commencement.

Sticking with it after 45 years

William "Bill" Boyd, left, of Tullahoma, Tenn., shown with his wife Effie, graduated Aug. 14 with his Bachelor of Science degree in liberal arts — at age 81, 45 years after first enrolling at MTSU. He is a veteran who retired after working at Arnold Engineering Development Center. Nearly 900 degree candidates received diplomas.

Honoring 'Wink'

Midgett family provides financing to upgrade Kennon Hall of Fame room

MT Athletic Communications goblueraiders.com

Former professor, author, historian and head coach E.W. "Wink" Midgett has been recognized by MTSU for his role in Blue Raider athletics in the years surrounding World War II by naming the conference room in the Rose and Emmett Kennon Hall of Fame in his honor.

A generous donation from Midgett's son, Don Midgett, has provided financing for a major upgrade in the conference room. It includes state-of-the-art chairs and a conference table with hidden computer outlets and controls for videos and televisions in the room.

"On behalf of the Midgett family, I am happy to honor my father and his many coaching accomplishments at Middle Tennessee State University," Don Midgett said.

Wink Midgett, who coached football and basketball at Middle Tennessee before and after World War II, began his coaching career in 1939 when he took the reins of the men's basketball program. In 1940, he began coaching the Blue Raider football team, bringing them up to a 4-4 record (which included a 6-0 win against rival Tennessee Tech) after two previous seasons that had netted a total of just three wins.

Midgett's teams posted winning records of 4-3-1 in 1941 and 4-2-1 in 1942, despite losing many players to World War II, and he concluded his football coaching career in 1946 with a 5-3-1 mark. Football was suspended during 1943 through 1945 because of the war. Perhaps his greatest accomplishment, at least in terms of long-range success, came in 1939, when he formed and coached the very first Middle Tennessee golf team. Members of that team included Blue Raider Hall of Famers John Bragg, Jimmy Jackson, E.K. Patty and Gene McIntire.

Success in the Blue Raider golf program included a national championship in 1965 and multiple conference titles and NCAA tournament appearances.

Midgett's son Dan, who has since passed away, was a member of that winning 1965 team.

"We want to thank Don and Carolyn Midgett for their generous donation to the Middle Tennessee athletic program on behalf of Don's father, Coach E.W. 'Wink' Midgett," said Director of Athletics Chris Massaro. "Coach Midgett was a very successful coach in a very trying time for our university.

"This donation will allow us to upgrade what is already one of the finest facilities on our campus, the Rose and Emmett Kennon Blue Raider Hall of Fame."
