Every year, more and more cultural diversity is present within public schools. Current educational research into cognition considers this diversity and its impact upon teaching and learning. This online degree program provides an opportunity to study the impact and influence that cultural circumstances have on learning and on teaching in general. Onsite options are available for some courses.

Admission

The Specialist in Education (Ed.S.) degree in Curriculum and Instruction with a specialization in Culture, Cognition, and the Learning Process (CC/LP) is an online degree program. All coursework is delivered via the D2L course management system. Online courses fill up quickly. If you plan to enroll in an online course, please do so as soon as registration opens.

All students must be admitted to the MTSU College of Graduate Studies. Please consult the MTSU Graduate Catalog for more details.
