Middle Tennessee State University has a large and beautifully landscaped campus of approximately 500 acres and 153 permanent buildings totaling over 4 million square feet. Campus buildings are shown on a map printed in this catalog.

Academic Advising

In addition to the academic assistance provided by the faculty, MTSU has academic college advisors in each undergraduate college. Academic college advisors assist students in their academic growth and adjustment to university life. The advisors work primarily with freshmen, transfers, and potential majors within a specific college, as well as with students in academic difficulty. Advisors counsel students regarding correct college courses, make referrals to faculty major advisors, assist students during CUSTOMS orientation and registration activities, and make referrals to Guidance Services.

The Academic Support Center (ASC) provides academic advising services for MTSU students with undeclared majors and students with courses in the Developmental Studies program. In addition to course selection and registration, ASC advisors will provide guidance and information to help students select appropriate majors early in their academic careers. Students interested in changing a major or exploring the majors MTSU has to offer should also visit the center. The Academic Support Center also coordinates learning communities, the community reading program, the Raider Book Clubs, and other academic initiatives. Any student seeking academic assistance is encouraged to contact an academic advisor through their college or the Academic Support Center.

Art Department Slide Library

Located in Saunders Fine Arts 309, the Slide Library is a resource for the art faculty and for the University population at large. The library’s 50,000 slides include examples of art from the prehistoric to contemporary era. (See also Art Department in this catalog.)

Center for Health and Human Services

The Center for Health and Human Services is a federation of academic units that share the common goal of preparing the health and human services workforce in Tennessee. Coordinated by the chairholder of the Adams Chair of Excellence in Health Care Services, the center encourages quality interdisciplinary education, research, and service programs in health and human service areas. MTSU programs affiliated with this center include Aging Studies, Athletic Training, Child Development and Family Studies, Communication Disorders, Criminal Justice Administration, Early Childhood Education, Environmental Science and Technology (Environmental Health and Safety), Exercise Science and Health Promotion, Family and Consumer Studies, Health Education, Health Sciences (pre-nuclear medicine technology, pre-radiation therapy technology), Nursing, Nutrition and Food Science, Pre-professional Programs (pre- cytotechnology, -dental, -dental hygiene, -health information management, -medical, -medical technology, -occupational therapy, -pharmacy, -physical therapy), Psychology (mental health), Recreation and Leisure Services, and Social Work.

Center for Historic Preservation

One of two Centers of Excellence at MTSU, the Center for Historic Preservation (histpres.mtsu.edu/histpres) was established in 1984. It is a research and public service institute committed to the preservation, protection, enhancement, and sensitive promotion of the historic environment. Through its varied projects, programs, and activities, the center responds directly to the needs and concerns of communities and organizations working to include heritage in their future economic development strategies. Providing leadership and assistance on a local, state, regional, and national basis, the center’s work falls within four initiatives.
Town and country preservation recognizes the unique heritage, resources, and problems of rural areas and small towns. National Register nominations for individual buildings and historic districts are an ongoing priority of this initiative. The Tennessee Century Farm Program is a documentary and educational project for farms that have been in the same family for at least 100 years. The African-American Rural Church Project, also a continuing project, documents the state’s historic black churches, often identifying schools and cemeteries as well.

Heritage education addresses the use of local historic resources as teaching tools in the K–12 grades. The center cooperates with the MTSU College of Education and Behavioral Science and local schools to develop and test new teaching materials and provide teacher-training workshops. The center also works closely with community heritage organizations to guide and assist them in preservation and education projects. The Heritage Education Network (histpres.mtsu.edu/thcn) is a national Web site for teachers sponsored in part by the National Center for Preservation Technology and Training. The center director also serves as the senior editor of the Tennessee Historical Quarterly, a valuable tool for high school and college teachers.

The Tennessee Civil War National Heritage Area (histpres.mtsu.edu/tncivwar) is the center’s primary federal grant funded project. Created by Congress in 1996, the Heritage Area focuses on the preservation, interpretation, and heritage development of the multiple legacies of the Civil War and Reconstruction era in Tennessee. The center is the only university unit in the nation to serve as the administrative head of a National Heritage Area, which are partnership units of the National Park Service. The Heritage Area provides technical services to institutions, agencies, and property owners across the state and develops funding partnerships with groups, governments, and institutions which work with the center to establish joint projects and programs of long-lasting benefit to the state and nation. As part of the Heritage Area effort, the center plays an active role in the Alliance of National Heritage Areas and directs the Alliance’s Heritage Development Institutes, which are professional training workshops held across the nation. The alliance provides support for graduate interns who participate in the workshop programs. The center also works closely with the Long Distance Trails Program of the National Park Service to document and develop preservation alternatives for National Register-eligible properties along the Trail of Tears in Tennessee.

The museum and historic sites initiative offers assistance to heritage museums in basic planning, adaptive restoration of historic buildings for museum use, collections management, and exhibit development. The center focuses on addressing the needs and problems of small museums.

Graduate-level staff teach two historic preservation courses each year for the Department of History and direct a large number of theses. The center funds a limited number of graduate research assistantships and fellowships each year. Graduate and undergraduate students work at the center to assist staff on a variety of applied research and public service projects, gaining valuable interdisciplinary experience to supplement their in-class training. The center’s technical library and facilities are visited by and serve students, interested individuals, and preservation professionals.

One recent project, The Tennessee Encyclopedia of History and Culture Online Edition, is a partnership among the center, the Tennessee Historical Society, and the University of Tennessee Press. Launched in 2003, the encyclopedia Web site provides a comprehensive reference for the state’s history.

Center for Popular Music

The Center for Popular Music (CPM) is an archive and research center devoted to the study of American popular music from the Colonial era to the present. It was established in 1985 as one of sixteen Centers of Excellence at universities in the Tennessee Board of Regents system. The center’s mission is to promote research and scholarship in American popular music and to foster an appreciation of America’s diverse musical culture. To carry out this mission, the CPM maintains a large research library and archive; presents public programs that interpret various aspects of American vernacular music; engages in original research projects; and disseminates the results of research through publications in various media.

The CPM’s library and archive is one of the largest and best popular music research collections in the country. Materials in the center’s archive and library fall into three broad categories. First are extensive holdings of the various types of media in which music has been fixed and sold as a commodity. These include print materials such as sheet music, song books, song broadsides and songsters, and sound recordings in formats ranging from cylinders to compact discs. The center’s sound archive is one of the largest in the country and consists of approximately 140,000 commercial sound recordings as well as many hours of unique unpublished recordings of music and interviews. The CPM’s sheet music collection of approximately 65,000 items is the largest in the Southeast, and its library of gospel songbooks is one of the most extensive of any repository not associated with a religious organization. Second are various materials that are needed to study popular music in all its musical, cultural, historical, technological, and commercial contexts, including items such as photographs, posters, playbills, concert programs, trade catalogs, news clippings, and personal papers of musicians, songwriters, and business people. Third are books, periodicals, and other reference materials about popular music. The center has one of the largest and most comprehensive libraries of books and periodicals about popular music in the country.

Materials in the center’s collection do not circulate but are available to anyone doing research on American popular music. The center’s resources support undergraduate, graduate, and faculty research in a variety of disciplines and departments. In keeping with one of the aims of the Centers of Excellence program, the Center for Popular Music serves as a research resource for people far beyond the bounds of the University. Center staff members have fielded research queries from every state in the union and from foreign countries representing every continent except Antarctica. Authors, journalists, media producers, performers, and students writing dissertations have all made use of the center’s archive and library. The center’s public programs include lectures, conferences, symposia, and concerts of contemporary and historical popular music.
