Mary Beth Mader
University of Memphis

Being Genealogical:
Contemporary Philosophical Reflection on Kinship

A new patchwork of notions of kinship is emerging in Euro-American cultures that confounds many of us. How should we understand ourselves as genealogical beings today? The lecture draws on contemporary thought on the concepts of descent and alliance—from feminist philosophy, evolutionary thought, anthropology and European philosophy—to contribute to a philosophy of human generative relations that sheds vestigial, unjust, and misguided presuppositions still at work in current conceptions of kin relation.

25th Anniversary Lyceum
Friday, April 22, 2016
at 5:00 pm,
COE, Room 164

MTSU is an equal opportunity, non-racially identifiable, educational institution that does not discriminate against individuals with disabilities