If you have a variety of interests or simply want a broad educational experience, consider the Bachelor of Science in Integrated Studies, an interdisciplinary degree offered through MTSU’s University College. The degree can be tailored to fit a student’s passions and current job market demands.

Students in Integrated Studies work with an academic advisor to customize their course options, giving them a solid foundation to jumpstart their careers while satisfying University requirements. Course scheduling within the major is flexible, and several online courses are available.

Students may choose from several preplanned areas of emphasis through partnerships with other University departments—Communication Studies, Health and Human Performance, and Leadership Studies—or design your own in consultation with an advisor.
