Sheri hails from the rustic south but found her way to mid-sized metropolitan bliss in pursuit of scenic hilltops and higher education. After completing her MFA in Graphic Design at University of Tennessee, Knoxville, she spent some time soaking in the Nashville scene while accruing an impressive ten years in the marketing and advertising biz. Now serving as Assistant Professor of Graphic Design at Middle Tennessee State University, Sheri enjoys the angelic sound of 23 iMacs starting up in the morning and helping students find out their own creative paths.

Sheri Selph Design is a one-woman show but has taps into some very talented resources that can grow your project as efficiently and robustly as needed.

https://www.selph.work
Stefanie holds an MFA in Visual Communication from Jacksonville State University and two undergraduate degrees from MTSU—a BFA in Graphic Design and a BS in Recording Industry. She has spent most of her creative professional career as an art director and designer in Nashville, TN, with agencies, in-house teams, and freelancing for clients across many industries. Her background has given her a unique perspective on the connections between design, business, culture, and society. She continues to build and strengthen these connections through her interest in studying visual communication through the lens of story and narrative in film, literature, and other pop culture.

https://www.stefaniecobb.com