Introduction

This booklet was compiled by the Center for Health and Human Services at Middle Tennessee State University, under contract with the Tennessee Department of Health, Division of Family Health and Wellness. It provides a list of SIDS and other bereavement support services across the state and can be used by families and caregivers who have experienced the loss of a child and by professionals who work with bereaved families—social workers, counselors, public health staff, and spiritual leaders.

The Center for Health and Human Services contacted hospitals, private sector organizations, and other facilities throughout the state to compile this resource booklet, which is updated periodically. If you have information that should be included in this guide, please call 615-898-5493 or email Cynthia.Chafin@mtsu.edu. Recognition is given to CHHS fall 2022 student intern Kira King with the MTSU Master of Public Health program for assisting with research for this publication.

This booklet is organized into 13 public health regions—six urban and seven nonurban. Urban regions or counties are presented first from west to east in the following order: Memphis/Shelby County, Jackson/Madison County, Metro Nashville/Davidson County, Chattanooga/Hamilton County, Knoxville/Knox County, and Sullivan County. Nonurban regions are also presented from west to east as follows: West Region, Mid-Cumberland Region, South Central Region, Upper Cumberland Region, Southeast Region, East Region, and Northeast Region.

This three-day, family grief camp serves children having completed kindergarten through high school who have lost a loved one in the past two years. This camp is a safe place where feelings of grief can be expressed without having to worry about the reactions of others.
Trained professionals and volunteers help kids and their families explore issues related to grief, walking beside them as they take the steps needed to heal. By sharing their grief with others, children and adults can begin to let go. Completely free to attend.

Hospital Bereavement Services:
The loss of a baby due to miscarriage or stillbirth is a traumatic life event. The Perinatal Bereavement Program at Jackson-Madison County General Hospital offers a compassionate type of care for families grieving the loss of a baby at any age. Families are supported at time of delivery, during their hospital stay, and throughout a period of bereavement. Care is provided by certified bereavement counselors with a focus on memory-making and grief support. During a 13-month period of bereavement care, families receive monthly contacts in the form of mailings, emails, phone calls, or home visits. A private online support group is also available to help families connect and feel supported through their grief journey.

Contact: Leigh Ann Sutton, 731-541-6426

Community Bereavement Services:
Hospice of West Tennessee offers a bereavement counselor, social workers, chaplain and trained bereavement volunteers who can meet individually for one-on-one grief support or with small groups. Bereavement Services:
Listening Hearts is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that was formed in 2008 with the purpose of providing a safe and sharing environment for grieving moms. A peer support group for mothers of all walks of life who are grieving the death of a child or children. Meetings are monthly in Knoxville, Morristown, Harriman/Oak Ridge, Seymour, and Loudon. It doesn't matter the age of the child, the cause of death, or the length of time. Listening Hearts offers a community of healing through various programs, which include restorative activities, emotional support, health self-care activities, and memorial events throughout the year. No appointment necessary and no fee charged.
