Bernie Ellis quits
Cities hiring freeze as reason for resignation

by CURTIS BALLS
Staff Writer

Bernie Ellis, director of Tennessee's AIDS surveillance program, resigned Monday, charging that the hiring freeze in state government is hurting the fight against AIDS.

Ellis said three workers, whose salaries would be paid with currently available federal funds, are needed immediately.

Two of the new employees are needed to investigate AIDS cases and report data regarding the spread of AIDS, primarily in Memphis and middle Tennessee, which together, have over half the 1,061 statewide reported AIDS cases. A third person is needed to coordinate studies which have shown a rise in HIV infections in certain population groups.

State Health Commissioner, J. W. Luna, explained that the hiring freeze applied to all employees including those whose salaries are federally funded.

He claimed that to hire AIDS workers would create "one heck of a morale problem" within the Health Department.

But Ellis pointed out that to use all available resources to attack the core problems in the AIDS fight would seem to bolster staff morale.

While hiring exceptions are made for employees whose services are deemed "critically needed," Luna went on to say he didn't know that the AIDS program was in any more desperate straits than other health and environmental programs.

T-GALA goes 9 for 11
Progressive candidates come out on top in Democratic primary

by JEFF ELLIS

Following results in Tuesday's Davidson County Democratic Primary, members of the Tennessee Gay and Lesbian Alliance's legislative committee are celebrating the success of nine of the 11 candidates the group endorsed last week.

"It was the support that we went out and gave on Tuesday that many people are attributing to their success in the primary," said Robb McCluskey, chair of T-GALA's legislative committee. "We had a phenomenal response to our endorsements, large numbers of people voted Tuesday because of our efforts. We went to every bar in town last Saturday night, handing out flyers with our list of endorsements."

Results in Tuesday's primary elections indicated a desire by Nashville/Davidson county voters to get rid of political insiders, electing instead several progressive candidates, including the nine endorsed by T-GALA.

According to McCluskey, the candidates endorsed by T-GALA who were victorious in Tuesday's elections included:
- In races for circuit court judge - Hamilton "Kip" Gayden, division one; Marietta Shipley, division two; Barbara Haynes, division three; and Walter Kurtz, division five.
- In the juvenile court judge race, Vanderbilt University law professor Andy Shockholf easily defeated incumbent Judge Harry Lester by a 71 percent to 29 percent margin.
- In races for general sessions judge - William Faimon, division one; Michael Mondelli, division two; and Bill Higgins, division six.
- In races for general sessions judge - William Faimon, division one; Michael Mondelli, division two; and Bill Higgins, division six.
- Both Gayden and Kurtz ran unopposed. Shipley defeated incumbent Judge Harry Lester by a 69 percent to 31 percent margin.
- In races for general sessions judge - William Faimon, division one; Michael Mondelli, division two; and Bill Higgins, division six.
- In races for general sessions judge - William Faimon, division one; Michael Mondelli, division two; and Bill Higgins, division six.

Both Faimon and Higgins were unopposed. Mondelli won the seat formerly held by his father, by a narrow margin over former district attorney general Eddie Barnard.

- In the race for public defender, Karl Dean, endorsed by T-GALA, ran unopposed.
- Bill Bruce, a candidate for criminal court judge in division four, and Fred Dance, candidate for general

Copello leaves VAP

from STAFF REPORTS

Vanderbilt AIDS Project (VAP) director, A. Gene Copello, has accepted a new position as director of the San Mateo AIDS Program effective June 30.

Copello has served as director of Vanderbilt AIDS Project since its beginning in 1984 and has also previously served as president of the International Society for AIDS Education. Further, he has served as a term member of the National CARES board of directors of VAP's interim director is Richard Zaner.

A search committee to find a suitable permanent replacement for Copello is expected to be formed soon.

Memphis 'live performance' law among nation's most stringent

by JEFF ELLIS
Editor

Memphis Mayor Dick Hackett late last month signed into law an ordinance approved by the City Council that bans minors from a variety of live performances that include displays of "excess violence, nudity, sadomasochistic abuse, sexual conduct or sexual excitement."

The ordinance, its language unclear to legal scholars and civil libertarians, is one of the strictest such laws in the United States.

However, the American Civil Liberties Union/Tennessee has filed suit against the city of Memphis, challenging the constitutionality of the ordinance.

Memphis attorney Bruce Kramer is cooperating ACLU counsel in that action. He was unavailable at press time.

Under the new city ordinance, promoters, performers, producers and directors could be held responsible if minors are allowed to attend their shows.

Parents and guardians of underage children could also be charged, according to the ordinance.

In addition, the ordinance prohibits minors from attempting to buy tickets to, or attending, such a show by using fake identification.

The language of the ordinance defines "sexual excitement" as "acts of masturbation, homosexuality, sexual intercourse or physical contact with a person's clothed or unclothed genitals,"

Survey says same-sex couples answering census

According to a reader survey conducted by Partners, the newsletter for gay & lesbian couples, millions of gay and lesbian couples may be counted by the 1990 U.S. Census. Of the 96 couples responding to the mid-March survey, 92 said they would declare themselves as "unmarried partners." Only four planned to keep their relationship secret.

In response to another survey question, 81 percent of the couples said they would be legally married if the option were available. Thirty-one percent of the couples have had a union ceremony, and 26 percent plan such a ceremony.

NGRA co-founder Knutson dies April 19 of AIDS

Donald Knutson, San Francisco attorney who co-founded National Gay Rights Advocates and Bay Area Lawyers for Individual Freedom and author of HOOMSEXUALITY AND THE LAW, died April 19 of complications from AIDS.

Knutson taught the first law school course in the nation on homosexuality and the law at the University of Southern California where he was Professor of Law. He also served as the first faculty advisor to the Gay Student Union at USC.

Among the key cases he argued was the precedent-setting Pacific Bell case which resulted in a California State Supreme Court ruling that protects job rights for gay men and lesbians.

"San Francisco is a better city because Don Knutson made his home here," Mayor Art Agnos said. "His work left people safer and freer of discrimination, and I am proud that I knew him as a friend and ally."

Last year Agnos named October 16 as Don Knutson Day in San Francisco. Knutson was also honored with a tribute from Robert Raven, president, American Bar Association.

The art of independence

Documentary films explore what we believe to be true, but an honest look at documentaries will reveal their pieces and the choices that shape information presented at whole cloth reality.

Documentaries can be honestly subjective in rendering, or they can be stiffly manipulative, intending to force the viewer to the filmmaker's point of view. Independents have axes to grind, too, and they use an astonishing variety of bludgeon points. The documentary is a longstanding staple of independent expression, and the form is often a tired one, but not always. Serious documentary work looking at social issues in a fresh and rigorous way is a high calling indeed.

Narrative work has come into its own in the independent field. Within the last five years, the quality, quantity and running length of narrative work has mushroomed.

With independent films, an artist with a vision makes all the decisions from start to finish — not the agent, not the marketing department, not the star.

markets with cable and home video have made this form of expression a road to reach greater audiences.

The power of the story well told is a timeless one. Just as there have always been representational painters, there will always be narrative films. Experimental films extend the boundaries of film experience via pure color and sound, shape, computer generated images and animation techniques.

Good experimental films look like nothing you have ever seen before, and they most often leave the viewer with a general impression rather than a set of ideas or issues, characters or plot resolutions.

Watching a good experimental film is similar to viewing a good abstract painting. Not all things should be articulated — some things must simply be experienced and allowed to change us in subtle, interior ways.

Independent animations and experimental films may look different, independent documentaries may reflect life or history as we know it differently or ask new, hard questions; independent narratives can probe and present realities of human experience that do exist and that must be known.

The best independent films provide radical joys for the eye and ear and mind.
A disappointing ‘Evita’

reviewed by JEFF ELLIS

Producing the Tim Rice-Andrew Lloyd Webber musical, Evita, is a daunting task for any theatre, even large professional companies. But when a community theatre tackles the job it faces even more obstacles, not the least of which is finding the right actress to sing the lead role.

As its season-ending production, Murfreesboro Little Theatre presents the musical story of the meteoric rise to fame, and calamitous fall, of Argentina’s almost-defiled first lady, Eva Perón. The musical follows Eva from age 15 to her death from cancer in 1952 at age 33.

And while MLT’s effort is a noble one, the result is a disappointing series of gaffes and mistakes made obvious by poor casting.

Directors Mary Jane Miller and Virginia Jackson do a remarkable job transforming the tiny black-box theatre space at MLT into an effective canvas upon which they paint their sessions judge in division one, were both unsuccessful in Tuesday's balloting.

McCluskey said T-GALA's efforts included having poll workers who distributed leaflets with the organization's endorsements.

He said that the Nashville-based organization will "be taking a strong stand on voter registration" during the upcoming general election campaigns.

After analysis of a survey conducted in mid-April, the T-GALA legislative committee gave its support to the candidates.

McCluskey explained that the questionnaire, developed by T-GALA with assistance from the San Francisco-based Bay Area Lawyers for Individual Rights (BALIF), was mailed to candidates in all judicial primary elections.

Of the 35 questionnaires mailed, ten were returned by candidates. Two candidates — Kurtz and Haynes — did not meet T-GALA's April 20 deadline, but were endorsed because of their past records.

McCluskey said T-GALA plans to be active in the upcoming elections for the Nashville/Metropolitan Davidson County council. He said that T-GALA would be hosting a victory party in honor of successful candidates on May 18 at Warehouse Two. Details have not been finalized, McCluskey said.

"In fact, we're being courted by several candidates for Metro Council," McCluskey said.

In other primary results, voters chose former FBI agent Hank Hillin as the Democratic standard-bearer for Davidson County sheriff. Hillin handily defeated 18-year veteran Fate Thomas, who was named in a 38-count indictment in February.

...Memphis ordinance

The ordinance refers to "nudity" as "the showing of the human male or female genitalia, pubic area or buttocks with less than full opaque covering, or the showing of the female breast with the top of the nipple, or the depiction of covered male genitalia in a discernibly turgid state."

Sources claim that the Memphis City Council drafted the ordinance after a recent Molle Crue concert at the Mid-South Coliseum during which drummer Tommy Lee dropped his pants in front of the audience.

"We believe the ordinance blatantly violates the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Our major concern is that this ordinance takes the responsibility away from parents and hands it over to government to determine what minors can listen to and what concerts minors can attend," said Hedy Weinberg, executive director of ACLU/Tennessee.

"This usurpation of parental responsibility certainly puts government in a role it should not be in."

The ordinance contains a clause which stipulates that if any portion of the ordinance is proven in court to be unconstitutional, other provisions will remain in effect until further court action is taken.

story. Making good use of projections to give historical perspective to the performances (which succeeds despite a slide projector that weeds and whines, at times almost drowning out the slight voices of the cast members) and with Read Ridley's superb lighting design, the production has a strong technical base.

Stylish production values, however, do little to compensate for the weak performances that wreak havoc over a libretto and score that are among the richest — and most difficult — in contemporary musical theatre.

While all the parts are difficult, the role of Eva is especially so. Webber's score requires the actress who sings the role to be a virtuoso, with the organization's endorsements.

Unfortunately, MLT's Eva, Annie Boss Flanigan, is no match for Webber's musical fireworks, her voice lacking the power the score demands, her acting the fire and spirit the role requires. Her Eva lacks the air of manipulation, of connivance that is the quintessential Evita.

While Flanigan is lovely during Eva's scene on the balcony of the Casa Rosado, her performance of "Don't Cry for Me, Argentina" is anti-climactic, marred by the sheer staginess and mechanical interpretation of the sequence.

Cast as Ché, the firebrand revolutionary student who serves as a chorus of sorts in this tale, Scott Coulter, while having the best voice in the cast, is woefully miscast. His Ché is much too clean-cut, lacking the intensity one associates with the role. Coulter's performance of "Rainbow Tour" is ridiculous as he affects a series of accents to indicate Eva's itinerary.

Mark Sartain, as Juan Perón, certainly looks the part and gives a credible performance, although his Tennessee twang manages to creep in, undermining what could have been a good performance.

As Perón's mistress, Pamela Huff is given the haunting "Another Suitcase in Another Hall" to sing, but proves unequal to the task. While her voice is sweet, she too lacks the control and power that is essential.

Also disturbing was the lack of energy in the ensemble numbers, notably "A New Argentina." What should have been — and could have been — a richly colorful and exciting number was, in reality, the most disappointing sequence of the production. The only time a group number even approached the proper level was in Act Two's "The Money Kept Rolling In...".

Special attention should be paid to the choreography of Richard Browder and Don Sullivan (who also give the show's best performances — full of the energy so sadly lacking in the overall production), which effectively captures the spirit of the Argentine with its sensual rhythms.

While Murfreesboro Little Theatre should be applauded for its risk-taking — and the production does succeed on some levels — the selection of an opera like Evita was probably a mistake.

An imperfect 'Encyclopedia'

reviewed by SHERRE DRYDEN
Book Editor

At $150 for the set, the ENCYCLOPEDIA OF HOMOSEXUALITY is not likely to find a place in many homes. It will, however, become a standard reference source in libraries from the local public branch to major research libraries.

Although it has significant problems, the ENCYCLOPEDIA OF HOMOSEXUALITY is a welcome introduction and guide, useful to the initiate and the beginner.

The ENCYCLOPEDIA OF HOMOSEXUALITY is comprised of two volumes, arranged in dictionary order. Volume one includes a reader's guide, which advises on using the Encyclopedia as text for self-directed study; volume two includes an index.

The articles are of three types: thematic (Sociology, for example, or Labeling): topical (Chicago, or Oral Sex) and biographical (living people are excluded). Most of the articles are signed, and many include a brief bibliography.

Cross-references, both within the text to peripheral entries and at the end of an article to directly related entries, are abundant and helpful.

Typographical and grammatical errors and uneven printing mar the book to some degree, but the ENCYCLOPEDIA OF HOMOSEXUALITY is well bound and likely to withstand years of use.

A disappointment was the lack of the wonderful illustrations that were included in promotional literature. The price makes the set, which is aimed at a library market, prohibitively expensive for most individuals (a one-volume paperback edition for home libraries would probably be well-received).

The competence of the entries varies with that of the contributor.

Lillian Faderman's articles on Emily Dickinson and Female Romantic Friendship, predictably, are excellent.

Other entries betray hurried or inadequate research—the entry on Janet Flanner ignores Solita Solano, the woman with whom Flanner first went to Paris and with whom she maintained a relationship until her death—or an incomplete understanding of the subject.

For example, lesbians may be surprised to learn from Wayne R. Dunes, in the entry on Film, that "lesbian porn...exists only as scenes within films addressed to heterosexual males, their [sic] being, thus far, no market for full-length lesbian films of this nature."

Readers will be dismayed (but perhaps not surprised) by the Encyclopedia's subtle sexism. Although the editors try to excuse themselves for the imbalance ("there is a good deal more on the former [male homosexuality] because the latter [lesbianism] has been even more thoroughly censored from the historical record along with other aspects of the history of women..."), from the Preface's references to "clergymen" to the fact that someone saw a need for an index entry for "lesbianism" but not a comparable entry for male homosexuality, it is clear that the ENCYCLOPEDIA OF HOMOSEXUALITY has problems.

Many entries suffer from what I call the "and they had lesbians, too" syndrome. Non-parallel treatment of lesbian issues, a few dismissive paragraphs usually at the end of an entry, to satisfy a directive to be inclusive, mar the book.

The entry on China, for example, has a number of subdivisions: the Zhou Dynasty, Homosexual Emperors, Male Prostitution, Western Influences, etc. The final two subdivisions, five paragraphs in a five page article, are Lesbianism and Lesbian Marriages.

It is accessible and interesting to a wide range of readers, from literate high school students to experts in the field.

It is a handy compendium of facts and theories about homosexuality and lesbian and gay life.

This entry, which seems to be an article about homosexuality in China is really an article about male homosexuality in China. Lesbians are something else.

Another symptom of sexism is the fact that there are over three times as many male as female contributors (all of the editors are male). The reasons for this overwhelming maleness of the writers are unknown, but the result is inexcusable.

Few, if any, of the thematic and topical entries (those not on "female" subjects), entries like Aging, Clothing, Coming Out and Gender, are written by women. Although most of the biographies of women were written by women, about one third were written by men. Almost none of the biographies of men were written by women. I do insist that if women are only permitted to write about women (and then only sometimes), women are being excluded from scholarship and discourse.

Perhaps I seem too harsh. After all, the ENCYCLOPEDIA OF HOMOSEXUALITY is a good thing. Because it is part of the Garland Reference Library of Social Science, many academic and large public libraries will acquire it automatically. It is accessible and interesting to a wide range of readers, from literate high school students to experts in the field. It is a handy compendium of facts and theories about and ideas about homosexual and lesbian and gay life.

I just wish it were better.

In the community interest...

Dear Dare:

The installation of Rod Bragg as the new pastor of MCC Nashville was one of the most moving Christian worship services I have attended in a long time.

Held at St. Ann's Episcopal Church on Woodland Street, the service embodied what I feel is all too rare in church these days — men and women of various religions, colors, ages and orientations coming together in a worship experience that is free of sexist, racist, homophobic language and symbols.

As one who continues to feel drawn to church but who is constantly reminded of its tradition of oppression, it is such a welcome relief to make it through an entire service without being jolted, varved, phrases and imagery, back into a world dominated by white male heterosexuality.

To experience women as such an integral part of church was a spirit-filled occasion for me and one which I hope can be repeated.

I was doubly touched because having grown up in the Episcopal Church, it has taken me years to undo the pervasive male language and symbolism of that denomination.

So to be part of an service in an Episcopal church pastored by a woman, surrounded by gay and lesbian people, and to feel included in the prayers, the hymns, the sermon and the liturgy was a feeling of wholeness too often missing in my life.

Rev. Bragg is to be commended for his impressive start in our community.

His commitment to women in the church and ministry goes far deeper than tokenism.

He is proving himself to be a leader in this area, and I am thankful he has support not only from MCC, but from clergy and congregations throughout Nashville.

Dear Dare:

But most of all, thank you gay and lesbian survivors of hate crimes.

Thank you for coming forward with your unspeakable ordeals, for helping us turn around something terrible and make it something powerful and decisive.

We urge all victims of attacks and defamation to come forward, to report the incident, to help us make sure bigots and bashers don't get away with their horrible crimes.

The White House allowed me to take only seven individuals with me to the bill signing ceremony, although I wanted to take thousands of you. I made my list represent the gay and lesbian community at large.

I included a midwest hate crimes activist, Art Schenk of the Illinois Gay and Lesbian Task Force, who represented those of you who are grassroots lobbyists and organizers.

I included an openly gay Republican, Frank Ricciuzzi from California's Log Cabin political group, who helped push the Republican Administration to sign the bill and who will continue to lobby for access and gay and lesbian visibility in the Administration.

I invited a lesbian survivor of hate crimes, Claudia Brenner, who, along with her lover, Rebecca Wight, were attacked while hiking together on the Appalachian Trail. Rebecca was murdered, but Claudia has courageously gone on to advocate on behalf of hate crimes victims.

My list also included a Senate staffer, Susan Kaplan, who worked tirelessly to keep the bill inclusive. Her behind-the-scenes Senate work, along with the assistance of many other, moved the bill and helped set up the defeat of anti-gay amendments by Jesse Helms.

Finally, I took Robert Bray, NGLTF media director, who has helped get the hate crimes message out to the press and the public, and Kevin Berrill, NGLTF anti-violence project director, who through the years has represented the Task Force's vision and hard work on this issue.

Congratulations gay and lesbian community! Lobbying, organizing and grassroots pressure really do work!

It was my pleasure to help coordinate this victory and to have the opportunity to work with so many dedicated individuals and organizations.

Let's not lose our momentum. Let's keep the pressure on Congress and our community to pass more pro-gay and lesbian legislation.

Let's meet again soon in the White House for the Presidential signing of the Federal Gay and Lesbian Civil Rights bill.

PERI JUDE BADESCU
Legislative Director, NGLTF
Washington, D.C.

Thank you for coming forward with your stories.
She wants to be 'let alone'

"Screen legend Greta Garbo had good reason to tell the world 'I want to be alone' — she was hiding a secret life as a lesbian!

"Deep-voiced, never-married Greta — who died of kidney failure at 84 on Easter Sunday — became the world's most famous recluse after retiring from the screen nearly 50 years ago. Close friends knew her secret, but never breathed a word to the world."

— From the NATIONAL INQUIRER's May 1 issue.

"Rumors long swirled about Garbo's sexual preference, and with good reason. Silent film star Louise Brooks claimed to have been intimate with her, as did the cosmopolitan aesthete Mercedes de Acosta. Curiously, throughout her life, Garbo referred to herself in masculine terms as a 'strapping young boy' or a 'bachelor.'"

— From a non-bylined cover story from PEOPLE magazine for April 30, most of which is drawn from the book WALKING WITH GARBO, written by Raymond Dasm and Vance Muse, and scheduled to be published this winter by Harper & Row.

"One of Garbo's lovers was Salka Viertel, who wrote five of her films, including QUEEN ELIZABETH, and she was a lesbian. — DARE FILE PHOTO

Greta Garbo. Even in death, the enigmatic star intrigues the gossip columnists, many of who insist she was a lesbian. — DARE FILE PHOTO

"I want to be let alone."

— Garbo's immortal words to GRAND HOTEL co-star John Barrymore in the legendary 1932 film.

"I expect it all to be horrible, and it is.

"AIDS or life?" the friend inquires.

"There's a difference."

— An exchanged between "Steven" and another character in Paul Monette's new book, AFTERLIFE.

"We can teach people to avoid the AIDS virus, and there will never be better vaccine than that! But education does little good if not delivered persistently and clearly, in the language of the listener."

— June E. Osborn, dean of the University of Michigan School of Public Health and chair of the National Commission on AIDS, calling for an end to restrictions on AIDS education in a column in USA TODAY.

"How much money can it take to tell a relatively small group not to bugger each other at the risk of losing their lives? $1 billion! Obviously, education alone has been ineffective in stopping the spread of HIV in the AIDS-saturated homosexual community — at least the kind of education which requires a homosexual to sit through a porno movie or read dirty little books to gain his interest."

— Rep. William E. Dannemeyer (R-Calif.), calling for continued restrictions on AIDS education in a column in USA TODAY.

"The deaths of Halston and others within the fashion industry and the arts point up the fact that AIDS is not killing off just a bunch of outcasts, it's threatening the creative life of our entire culture and stunting development of a whole new productive generation. Let the fundamentalists rejoice that their God has seen fit to crucify homosexuals for their sins. The rest of us need to work on repairing the damage this disease is bringing to our social and cultural fabric."

— David Williams of Louisville, Ky., in a letter to PEOPLE magazine.

"Rutgers is a classic case. The students persuaded the president to initiate a task force on gay and lesbian concerns. The report looks at every aspect of gay and lesbian life on campus. The fact that such a needs assessment took place is amazing."

— Kevin Berrill, director of the Anti-Violence Project and Campus Project for the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force, in a special report on gay and lesbian college students in the national college newspaper.

"Think campuses are an arena where some of the most significant progress is being made."

— Nan B. Hunter, director of the ACLU's Lesbian and Gay Project, in the u. s. story.

"Shocking evidence reveals that some former presidents were limp-wristed pansies who hid their homosexuality in the closets of the White House! Historian Horace F. Littleton says President Martin Van Buren was probably a homosexual — and so too probably were James Buchanan and Chester A. Arthur."
