The University Writing Center is pleased to announce an MT Engage Week e Portfolio Writing Workshop Series

e-ME: Writing for the ePortfolio Building, Reflecting, Revising

Workshop One: Finding Artifacts
Monday, September 24th, 1-2pm, LIB 248
This first workshop will help you understand the process of identifying artifacts that will be useful for the e portfolio. We will offer you a heuristic to evaluate your academic work from across multiple contexts and educational experiences and choose artifacts that will help tell the story of YOUR learning journey.

Workshop Two: Critical Reflection
Wednesday, September 26th, 1-2pm, LIB 248
This second workshop focuses on the process of critical reflection. We will introduce reflection as a systematic and rigorous meaning-making process, moving from experience to learning, that is informed by the process of scientific inquiry. We will facilitate your understanding of the questions you can ask yourself to prompt rich reflection, resulting in a deeper engagement with the e portfolio process.

Workshop Three: Revising the ePortfolio
Friday, September 28th, 1-2pm, LIB 248
This final workshop will focus on revision that considers the multimodal nature of e portfolios, consideration of audience, incorporating feedback, and guided revision, so that you can ready it for public readers.

Please note: Food will be served! Students who attend events will be eligible for prizes from MT Engage! Any questions, please email Erica Cirillo-McCarthy at erica.cirillo-mccarthy@mtsu.edu. See you soon!
