Agency History/biographical sketch:
Joe Crook is a Database Administrator in the Nashville area. Originally from Tennessee, he earned his B.S. in Mathematics from Vanderbilt University in 1989. Crook began collecting vinyl records in 1981 while living in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and continued collecting vinyl records, CD’s, and VHS tapes from that point forward.

Scope and content: Collection of 206 VHS tapes. All tapes belonged to Joe Crook, collected over several decades. The videos encompass a wide variety of genres, primarily rock and alternative from the 1980s and 1990s. Also includes 1950s, 60s, and 70s rock, electronica, blues, reggae, ska, and punk. Collection of 178 music magazines primarily consists of Goldmine, Rolling Stone, and Living Blues. See inventory list for specific titles.

Materials Cataloged Separately: All serials catalogued in Center’s database.

Arrangement: Original order has been maintained for music videos. All serials have been separated from collection and catalogued in the Center’s database.

Location: The videotapes are housed in the Manuscript Collections of the collection storage area filed by accession number. Magazines and serials are housed with the Secondary Serials collection.

Related Materials: The Center holds a number of other music video VHS tapes of 1980’s and 90’s alternative rock music.
