Abstract (Descriptive Summary):

The Charlie Walker Collection (08-020) is a unique and extensive assembly of audio/visual materials, photographs, books serials and manuscripts preserved by Mr. Walker to document many of the facets of his long career as a country music disc jockey, songwriter and musician. The collection includes numerous items that feature many of the most important creative figures of the post WWII country music scene as well as items that relate to Walker's many interests and hobbies outside of music.

RESTRICTIONS:

All materials in this collection are subject to standard national and international copyright laws. Materials for which we have undeniable rights are those that Charlie Walker created himself. Center staff is able to assist with copyright questions for this material. Manuscript Boxes 30 and 31 are restricted for open use to ensure privacy of personal information. These material may be made available at the archivists' discretion and with prior arrangements.

Provenance and Acquisition Information:

The materials in this collection represent the life's work of Charlie Walker. Walker retained large quantities of materials that represent his endeavors as a disc jockey, songwriter and successful country music performer circa 1940s-2000s. The materials in this collection were donated by Walker's widow, Constance (Connie) Walker, to the Center for Popular Music in May 2009. Mrs. Walker compiled some of the scrap books in the collection and also helped with the initial processing of the collection and identification of subjects in photographs.

Agency History/biographical sketch:

Born in Copeville, Texas on November 2, 1926, Charles Levi Walker, Jr. grew up working on the family cotton farm in Nevada, Texas where his family had relocated to shortly after his birth. Walker was interested in country music from a young age and he enjoyed artists such as Jimmie Rodgers, Ernest Tubb and Bob Wills. When Walker was ten years old, he taught himself to play a guitar that had been a gift from a neighbor and later learned how to play the fiddle and mandolin. His first experience with the music business began in 1943 as a member of a Texas dance hall band. Shortly thereafter, he formed his own band, the Texas Ramblers, with his brother Ervin. In 1944, Walker joined Bill Boyd's Cowboy Ramblers where he performed at their personal appearances and radio shows. In January of 1945, Walker was drafted into U.S. Army. His service eventually took him overseas to be stationed in occupied Japan as a member of the Signal Corps. While in Japan, he formed a band and entertained the troops with country music at camp shows. Walker's Texas Ramblers soon got a job performing on the Armed Forces Radio Station where he became one of the first American disc jockeys to introduce 'hillbilly music' to Japanese listeners in Tokyo.

Walker returned to the states in 1947 where he worked as a broadcaster and singer at KWBU in Corpus Christi and KMAC in San Antonio. He was extremely popular and ranked as one of Billboard's Top ten Country DJs for a decade. During this period, Charlie also managed a popular nightclub called The Old Barn in San Antonio that highlighted many early country and swing artists.

In addition to broadcasting, Walker enjoyed success as a performer, songwriter and recording artist throughout his long career. He recorded his first songs, "I'm Looking for Another You" and "Stolen Kisses" in 1952 with Imperial Records. In 1954 he signed with Decca, recording the regional hit, "Tell Her Lies and Feed Her Candy". His first record to hit the Top 10 charts was "Only You, Only You," co-written with Jack Newman in 1956. On the Mercury label, Walker released "Dancing Mexican Girl" and "I'll Never Let It Show" before signing with Columbia in 1958. His biggest hit, "Pick Me up on Your Way Down," was also the first hit for successful song-writer Harlan Howard. Staying on the charts for 22 weeks, the song was actually the "B" side to "Two Empty Arms." Subsequent recordings included "I'll Catch You When You Fall," "When My Conscience Hurts the Most," "Who Will Buy the Wine," and "There's Where Katie Waits." Recording for the Epic label, his "Wild as a Wildcat" was a minor hit, followed by the parody, "Don't Squeeze My Sharmon," which made the Top 10 in 1967.

On August 17, 1967, Charlie Walker became a cast member of the Grand Old Opry, where he soon became an audience favorite with his witty, rowdy songs. He continued his recording career throughout the 1970s, making the charts once again with the Capitol release of "Odds and Ends" in 1974. Walker also enjoyed some success in motion pictures. In 1970, Walker appeared in the Marty Robbins film Country Music, and in 1985 he portrayed Cowboy Copas in Sweet Dreams, a biographical movie about Patsy Cline.

Aside from his musical career, Charlie actively participated in a variety of sports and hobbies including golf, hunting and sport shooting. Walker was especially interested in golf and he played in about ten pro-celebrity tournaments each year as well as hosting a tournament under his own name. Walker was also a long time member of both the Shriners and Masons, eventually receiving the honor of becoming a Thirty-Third Degree Scottish Rite Mason.

Walker received many honors and awards over the course of his long career. In 1981 he was inducted into the Country Radio Hall of Fame and in 2000 he was inducted into the Texas

Country Music Hall of Fame. Walker also received numerous awards for his accomplishments in music, sports (golf, shooting) military and community activities and his long time membership in the Shriners and Masons.

Charlie Walker died at the age of 81 on September 12, 2008.

Scope and Content:

This collection is comprised of approximately 48 feet of books, serials, manuscripts, artifacts, photographs and audio and visual recordings that represent the long life and prolific career of country music singer, songwriter and disc jockey, Charlie Walker circa 1940s-2000s. The audio and visual materials, circa 1950s-2000s, are in multiple formats and represent performances, interviews, commercially released recordings, studio demos and song writer demos by Walker himself, other well-known country musicians and songwriters as well as many recordings submitted to Walker by fans and amateur songwriters. The 1800+ still images in this collection, circa 1930s-2000s, represent all aspects of Walker's career as well as his military service in occupied Japan, hobbies, social connections and family life. Many of the photographs feature historically significant events and persons. The manuscript collection provides an expansive, finely detailed record of Walker's life, career and interests. This part of the collection is comprised of correspondence, personal and financial records, newspaper/magazine articles and reviews, scrap books, posters, handbills, sheet music, catalogs etc. The Walker collection also includes many books and serials on mostly music related topics as well as sheet music. Much of this material has been integrated into the larger CPM collection. The audio/visual and photographic collections have been inventoried in detail and these records are available to the researcher.

Materials Cataloged Separately:

Per Center policy, certain formats are cataloged separately for accessibility, including digital materials listed above, video and sound recording materials. [For a complete list of separated materials, please contact the archivist.]

Arrangement:

Original order of the materials has been maintained in so far as possible. In the case where there was no obvious order, the processor devised the basic organizational scheme for the collections, reorganizing the materials within component groups where necessary. Manuscripts and correspondence have been filed chronologically at the folder and box level.

Location:

All manuscript materials are located in the special collections storage area filed by accession number. Audio/visual materials are located in the audio/visual special collections storage area.

Related Materials:

The Center holds other materials related to Charlie Walker, Country music, Western swing, the Grand Ole Opry, songwriters, Country music radio and Country music in Texas. Notably the Doug Seroff Country Music Collection (10-034), The Jesse Austin Morris Collection (13-070), the Evelyn Overstake Collection (02-020) among others. Information concerning country music and biographies of Charlie Walker can be found in the reading room collection and searchable through the MTSU Walker Library.
