Sociology . . .

Involves the application of scientific principles and procedures toward understanding the complex issues that face small groups, communities, organizations, institutions, and nations, while encouraging critical thinking in the process of resolution.

Sociology and Anthropology Department

Mission Statement

The Sociology Department of Middle Tennessee State University offers undergraduate and graduate programs and is uniquely able to provide:

- A macro-sociological perspective on social issues, societal change, and applied solutions to the problems of mass society;
- An understanding of cultural diversity in terms of ethnicity, race, gender, social class, and age differences;
- Opportunities to engage actively in values clarification and social problem solving including application of principles and findings to life situations;
- Skills in gathering viable information (including social science data), discriminating among sources, efficiently evaluating data (including using basic statistical packages and evaluating the research and findings of others), preparing incisive summaries of findings (primary and secondary research), and critical analysis of one's own work and that of others including the Internet, other media, research in one's own field and allied fields); □
Professional and personal preparation courses using social science data and findings.

The department also provides

- Quality faculty with broad-ranging research and public service interests;
- Student support services through advising, the computer lab, and an available professorate;
- Incorporation of newer technologies in the classroom;
- Commitment both to students and to the disciplines taught;
- Scholarships – for more information contact Ms. Carter at 898-2508;
- An active Sociology Club and Sociology Honor Society (AKD) – for more information contact Profs. MacLean or Dye.

Curriculum

The curriculum for the Sociology Department includes university General Studies, major and minor requirements, and electives. General Studies should be completed in the freshman and sophomore years, and department requirements in the sophomore, junior, and senior years.

Students have two options for completing the Sociology Program:

1. The Bachelor of Science (B.S.)
2. The Bachelor of Arts (B.A.)

Each track has unique requirements for completion of the degree (outlined below).

The required Sociology courses and Sociology electives are the same for both degrees.

General Education Requirements: (Bolded courses are recommended)

Communication (9 credit hours)

A. 6 hours - ENGL 1010, 1020

B. COMM 2200

History (6 credit hours)

HIST 2010, 2020, or 2030

Humanities and/or Fine Arts (9 credit hours)

A. 3 hours - ENGL 2020, 2030, or HUM 2610

B. 6 hours with different prefixes – ANTH 2210; ART 1030 or 1920; DANC 1000; ENGL 2020 or 2030; HIST 1010, 1020, 1110, or 1120; HUM 2610, MUS 1030, PHIL 1030, THEA 1030.

Social/Behavioral Sciences (6 credit hours – choose two with different prefixes)

AAS 2100, ANTH 2010, ECON 2410, GEOG 2000, GS 2010, HLTH 1530/31, JOUR/EMC/RIM 1020, PS 1005(formerly PS 2010) or 1010, PSY 1410, RS 2030, SOC 1010 (required in major) or 2010; WGST 2100

Natural Sciences (8 credit hours – choose two with different prefixes)

ASTR 1030/31, BIOL 1030/31, 1110/11, 2010/11, or 2020/21; CHEM 1010/11, 1030/31, or 1110/11; GEOL 1030/31 OR 1040/41, PHYS 1110, 2010/11 or 2110/11, PSCI 1030/31 or 1130-1131

Math (3 credit hours)

MATH 1010, 1530, 1630, 1710, 1720, 1730, 1810, or 1910

Sociology Major Requirements: (see How to Major information on p. 6)

Required Courses (22 credit hours) – all mandatory courses require minimum grade of C

A. Mandatory (16 hours) – SOC 1010 (meets 3 credit hours of General Education requirements), 3040, 3050, 3060, 4980

B. Required (choose one – 3 hours) – SOC 4050, 4100, 4360, 4511, 4520, 4560, 4660 or ##### Sociology of Law

C. Required (choose one – 3 hours) – SOC 3400, 4011, 4020, ##### Race, Class and Gender, 4240

Electives (12 credit hours)

TOTAL: 34 Hours

Bachelor of Science

In addition to the General Education and Sociology Major requirements, students pursuing the Bachelor of Science degree must also complete two minors. (Minors may vary in hours required and additional electives may be necessary to meet the minimum 120 hours for graduation)

Bachelor of Arts

In addition to the General Education and Sociology Major requirements, students pursuing the Bachelor of Arts degree must also complete one minor and meet the foreign language requirement (12 hours, progressive in nature, within the same language). (Minors may vary in hours required and additional electives may be necessary to meet the minimum 120 hours for graduation)

For a more detailed account of degree requirements, see the Upper Division forms for each degree program at the end of this handbook.

Major in Sociology

How to Major in Sociology

Students considering a major in Sociology are encouraged to complete either SOC 1010 Introduction Sociology or SOC 2010 Social Problems (or their honors equivalent) to acquaint themselves with the discipline and confirm their interest in sociology as a major. Those deciding to pursue the major should contact the Department of Sociology and Anthropology in TODD 342 (898-2508) to declare sociology as their major and be assigned an advisor. With the advisor, the student will develop a program of study that meets the requirements listed below. It is strongly recommended that students complete MATH 1530 (Applied Statistics) to meet the general education math requirement.

Requirements for the Sociology Major

The major consists of 34 hours of sociology, at least 25 of which must be from upper division courses. Required courses include SOC 1010 Introduction to Sociology, SOC 3040 Sociological Research Methods, SOC 3050 Sociological Data Analysis, SOC 3060 Sociological Theory, and SOC 4980 Senior Seminar. Students must receive at least a C in each required course. Additionally, students must complete 3 hours emphasizing institutions and the sociological imagination (see below) and 3 hours of critical perspectives in sociology (see below). Ideally students should take 3040, 3050, and 3060 early in the academic program, but no later than the junior year and prior to enrolling in Senior Seminar (SOC 4980). Senior Seminar should be completed during the senior year. In consultation with the student's advisor, the remaining 12 hours of electives may be organized into a concentration. Possible concentrations include, but are not limited to social inequalities, deviance and social control, work and family, and health and aging. Students are also required to complete two minors for the BS degree or one minor plus 12 hours of language for the BA degree.

The following courses meet the Institutions and the Sociological Imagination requirement.

SOC 4050 Sociology of Family	SOC 4100 Sociology of Work
SOC 4360 Medical Sociology	SOC 4511 Social Movements and Change
SOC 4520 Population and Society	SOC 4560 Organizational Structures and Processes
SOC 4660 Urban and Community Studies
SOC ##### Sociology of Law

The following courses meet the Critical Perspectives in Sociology requirement.

SOC 3400 Gender and Society	SOC 4011 Social Inequality
SOC 4020 Sociology of Aging	SOC ##### Race, Class and Gender
SOC 4240 Race Relations and Ethnicity

What do sociologists do?

- Agencies and organizations look to sociologists for their unique ability to define the crucial dimensions of a problem, isolate the most critical variables that affect it, and collaborate with others to craft a viable course of action.
- Sociologists work inside organizations in management positions from outside organizations as consultants and partners in rethinking how systems function.
- Sociologists hold positions in virtually every employment setting, including:
 - Federal, state, and local governments
 - International agencies
 - Social service agencies, non-profit organizations
 - Corporations, think tanks, and small businesses
 - Consulting firms
 - Universities and colleges
- Sociologists help frame problems within a larger social science context, building on a strong foundation of concepts and theories. They combine their broad understanding of race, gender, social class, cultural diversity, and age with insights into how organizational and social systems work. This makes them uniquely valuable as objective researchers and innovative change agents.
- Sociologists contribute to the contemporary workforce, bringing sophisticated skills and knowledge of research design to the most challenging problems. Sociologists receive broad training in basic social research, program evaluation, or policy analysis. Some conduct basic research, while others apply research-based knowledge to help organizations rethink existing programs and strategies or plan for the future.
- "Quantitative" sociologists bring expertise in survey design, statistical analysis, and management of large scale data bases. "Qualitative" sociologists have been trained in intensive interviewing, focus group research, community research, conflict analysis, policy analysis, and social impact analysis. Both are adept at interpreting data and deriving implications of research for policy and program development.
- Familiarity with the latest computer programs and management of data bases rank high among sociologist' skills, including:
 - Quantitative and qualitative methodologies
 - Data analysis
 - Social impact assessment
 - Program evaluation
 - Focus group research
 - Mediation and arbitration
 - And other applied skills
- Sociologists use statistical analysis software to interpret complicated findings. They prepare reports to governing bodies, employees, the general public, or the media, using clear, accessible language.
- Sociologists offer expertise in substantive areas, adding depth to research, planning, and development projects. Expertise in a specific subject may be of crucial importance to an employer.

Possible Career Paths in Sociology

Students majoring in sociology at MTSU have the option of selecting a career path within the major. In addition to the required courses (SOC 1010, 3040, 3050, 3060, and 4980), students are encouraged to choose 12 or more hours from one the following groups depending on their career goals. Recommended minors are also listed.

1. AGING, HEALTH and HUMAN SERVICES: SOC 2010, 2600, 3210, 4020, 4040, 4150 (Topics in women's health), 4360, 4520, or 4900; ANTH 3730
(Advisors – Professors Aday, Amey, Carter, Hinote, MacLean, or Wallace)

- Environment and Human Society

- Human Sciences
- Psychology
- Lifespan Development
- Behavioral Research
- Women and/or Gender Studies

Minor in Sociology

The minor in Sociology requires 18 semester hours of sociology including SOC 1010. Students choosing a minor are encouraged to select a sequence of SOC courses that enhances a career path. A student majoring in the department can elect one minor within the department, however courses will not count towards both the major and minor.

Minor in Family Studies

The minor in Family Studies requires 15 semester hours including SOC 4050. Students must choose the remaining 12 hours from these courses: SOC 2500, 3400, 4140; SW 4150, 4620; and CDFS 4140 (same as SOC 4140), 4350, 4390.

Minor in Criminology

The minor is designed to provide students an understanding of the social and psychological aspects of crime, including an in-depth examination of the typologies and classifications of crime; national and international crime patterns; various classical and contemporary theories of crime; causal and associated factors such as gender, race, class, and age; an understanding of victims; and preventative strategies. The minor requires 15 hours semester hours including SOC 4300 and 4540. Student must choose the remaining 9 hours from these courses: SOC 3210,3250,4140,4150,4160,4900; ANTH 3650,3710;CJA 3700,3900; and PSY 4120,4220.

Writing as a Sociologist

Successfully completing either a major or minor in sociology means one must be able to master writing the sociological essay: using appropriately cited evidence, structuring an effective argument, and capturing the sociological style. See the following for help in writing sociological essays: <http://www.monash.edu.au/lls/lonline/writing/arts/sociology/index.xml>

The Value of Internships and Service Learning

Internships during or just after the undergraduate years offer invaluable experience that can bring to life the sociological concepts and theories you study in books and in the classroom. You can sample potential careers, build your resume, and learn new skills during a well-chosen internship experience. Participation in an internship affords an excellent way to explore career options and help determine what aspects of sociology interest you. A wide range of internships is available to sociology majors/minors. See Internship Handbook for more information – Sociology and Anthropology Department Office.

In order to design your internship, ask yourself these questions:

1. "In what areas would I like to grow?"
2. "What are my strongest assets?"
3. "How can I make a meaningful contribution in a relatively short time?"

- Volunteer your time and skills to an employer on a temporary or part-time basis in order to establish initial contact and lay the foundation for future work.
- Contact your cooperative education, internship and / or service learning coordinator on campus for a listing of organizations that accept interns and for general advice on how to find an internship and derive the most benefit from it.
- Contact by letter and follow-up telephone call to several nonprofit organizations, corporations, businesses, and government or educational agencies the geographic location that interests you -- the broader the net, the more likely someone will offer you an internship.

2500 Marriage and Family (3) Social, cultural, and personal factors relating to mate selection, intimate relationships, and family life with an emphasis on families in the United States.

2600 Introduction to Gerontology (3) (Same as GERO 2600) Basis Concepts, overview of the field, illustrations of problems, and applications for an aging America.

3040 Research Methods (3) (Same as ANTH 3040.) Issues and strategies used by sociologists in their scientific studies and in their applied work in society.

3050 Data Analysis (4) (Same as ANTH 3050.) Analysis, interpretation, and reporting of social science data. Incorporates the use of a statistical package such as SPSS or SAS. Offers fundamental applied research skills for the job market.

3060 Sociological Theory (3) Theoretical foundations of sociology with emphasis on the major theories in sociology and their development. Addresses diverse intellectual traditions in both classical and contemporary theory.

3150 Life Cycle and the Social Environment (3) Prerequisites: PSY 1410; SOC 1010 or 2010. Overview of life course structure and processes examining physical, cognitive, social and personality development including the rule of institutions.

3210 Drugs and Alcohol (3) Prerequisite: SOC 1010, 2010, or permission of instructor. Sociological, historical, political-economic, and cultural dimensions of drugs and alcohol in society.

3250 Social Deviance (3) A general survey and theoretical review of the definitions, causes, and consequences of deviance and social control. Analyzes drugs, panics, sex, media violence, and emotions in society.

3400 Gender and Society (3) Prerequisite: SOC 1010 or WMST 2100. A socio-historical and cultural exploration of the socialization patterns, relationships, expectations, influences, organizational, institutional, and aging experiences of women and men in American society.

3770 Organizational Conflict, Negotiation and Dispute Resolution (3) Prerequisite: SOC 1010. Analysis of multiple approaches to assessing conflict at individual, group, and organizational levels; review of multiple negotiation processes and skills associated with successful negotiating strategies and tactics. Consideration of alternative dispute resolution domains, including mediation and arbitration. Emphasis on organizationally based conflict and skill building through exercises wherein students master analysis of conflict, practice negotiating contracts, and engage in mock mediation and arbitration activities using case study materials.

3950 Social Organizations and Institutions (3) Prerequisite: SOC 1010 or 2010. Theory, analysis, and public policy applications for contemporary organizations (corporations and social agencies) and institutions (family, education, health, media).

4011 Social Inequality (3) The origins, variations, and consequences of class, status, and power in society. Individual and group economic interests, social prestige, ideology, market and institutional inequality.

4020 Sociology of the Aging (3) Demographic, social, and cultural aspects of aging with particular emphasis on the types of problems encountered by older persons in American society.

4030 Topics in Gerontology (3) (Same as GERO 4030) An opportunity to integrate gerontological theory and research techniques with the practical problems of older persons.

4040 Health Care Delivery Issues (3) Sociological analysis of health care delivery and major issues facing providers, patients, and citizens in the twenty-first century, from the level of social interaction through the broader structures of health care systems and policies. Includes sociological approaches to health and medicine, health care institutions, insurance and reimbursement structures, and vulnerable populations, along with future issues and directions in U.S. health care delivery.

4050 Sociology of Families (3) Analysis of the family as a social institution with an emphasis on contemporary trends and diversity.

4090 Health Care Management (3) Details of the aspects of health care management with an emphasis on long-term care settings.

4100 Sociology of Work (3) Comparative analysis of work structure and processes in organizational contexts, including study of management and employee organizations and legal environments regarding workplace relations.

4140 Violence in the Family (3) (Same as CDFS 4140) The causes, dynamics, and consequences of violence in the family. Includes a discussion of violence toward children, spouses, dating partners, siblings, and elders. Emphasizes the social conditions that lead to these types of violence.

4150 Topics in Sociology (3 each) In depth study of a special topic that is significant in current sociological literature, such as women's health, sociology of emotions, global sociology, hate crimes, and so on.

4155 Media and Emotions in Global Perspective (3) Prerequisite: SOC 1010 or permission of instructor. Examines sociological and social-psychological perspectives on emotions, emotion management, and emotional behavior. Particular attention paid to emotions in global media.

4160 Sociology of Gangs (3) Prerequisite: SOC 1010. History of gangs in the United States, the factors that account for their formation and perpetuation, and current empirical data on gang composition, demographics, and culture. Policy strategies for prevention, law enforcement, and non-legal intervention assessed.

4240 Race and Ethnic Relations (3) The dynamics of race and ethnic relations in the United States from a socio-historic perspective.

4300 Criminology (3) Theories of the causes of criminal behavior and coverage of its development and incidence; punishment and methods of control and rehabilitation.

4360 Medical Sociology (3) Sociological analysis of health, biomedicine, epidemiology, and disease, along with critical analysis of major issues facing providers, patients, and citizens in the twenty-first century. Focuses on social epidemiology, social determinants and patterning of disease, health care delivery, institutions, and policy in the U.S. and other nations, and major theoretical developments in the sociology of health, illness, and healing.

4360 Contemporary Issues in Women's Health (3) Examines the social and cultural issues that shape women's health-related experiences and disparities in health and illness in contemporary culture. Critically analyzes problems associated with medicalization, technological favoritism, and for-profit intrusion. Explores issues and experiences among women by race/ethnicity, socioeconomic class, age, sexual orientation, and abilities.

4500 Social Interaction and Identities (3) Individual behavior in social contexts and symbolic interaction in groups. Includes social influences on perception, conformity, attitudes, communication, group structure, leadership, and role behavior.

4660 Urban and Community Studies (3) Prerequisite: SOC 1010. Focuses on the concept of community as a core idea in the historical development of sociology, concentrating on theories and historical trends of urbanization and current urban problems and policies.

4790 Sport and Society (3) (Same as LSTS 4790.) Behavioral approach to sport and leisure from the related perspectives of sociology and anthropology.

4800 Special Projects (1-6) Field experiences or reading courses through which special interests or needs of the student may be pursued under individual supervision. Arrangements must be made with an instructor prior to registration.

4900 Sociology Internship (3-6) Supervised independent study in which students are placed in an organization on a contractual basis as a means of applying the principles of his/her training in preparation for eventual employment. Arrangements must be made with an instructor prior to registration.

4980 Senior Seminar in Sociology (3) Prerequisites: At least 18 hours of sociology, including SOC 1010, 3040, 3050, 3060, and senior standing. Integrates coursework in the major through coverage of theory and method, analysis of critical issues, and applications to modern society.

Upper Division Form Requirements

An Upper Division form should be completed at the end of the sophomore year. The purpose of the Upper Division Form is to provide information on the student's major and minor areas for the University Records Office. This information is entered into the University computer system and is used to track the student's progress toward a degree. See forms at the end of this handbook or reference the online forms at http://www.mtsu.edu/soc/studentforms_soc.php.

Intent to Graduate Form

Graduation is conducted at the close of the Fall, Spring, and Summer terms. Students who plan to graduate should complete a Notice of Intention to Graduate form within the first two weeks of the first semester of the senior year. This form is available in the Records Office, 102 Cope Administration Building. Follow this link to access the Intent to Graduate Form online: <http://www.mtsu.edu/records/docs/intentform.pdf>.

Advising

The purpose of advising is to enable the sociology faculty to provide the highest quality advice to the student regarding his/her academic career so that he/she can make meaningful progress toward a Bachelor's Degree in Sociology in the shortest possible time. Good advising requires teamwork and cooperation between faculty members and students. The advising system for Sociology majors and minors is as follows:

1. Students come to the Sociology Department Office, 342 Todd Hall, to register officially as a sociology major. Students may indicate their preference for an advisor on this form.
2. It is the responsibility of the student to become familiar with requirements for the bachelor's degree that are in the MTSU Catalog.
3. It is in the students best interest to become acquainted with his/her advisor and have the advisor review the students schedule before registration to ensure that no mistakes occur.

The "Non-Traditional" Student

The Sociology Department welcomes students who are returning to the University after raising children, working for a few years, or who are changing careers. They may have responsibilities for families, and often are juggling several roles such as parent, spouse, student, and part or full time employee. They may be concerned about adapting to college life and some are uncomfortable about the quality of their previous college work. The Sociology Department has many majors who fit this description. The faculty offers attention and support to these students.

A Final Note on the Social Science Advantage

The changes in the 21st century job market are becoming more apparent with each passing year. Jobs of interest to you were most likely non-existent when your parents started their careers. Some of the sought after skills in this new era include: creativity, innovation, critical thinking, analytic problem-solving, excellent communication skills (both verbal and written), collaboration, multi-cultural and global understandings, and strength in mathematics and science. As these changes shape the job market, continual change, diversity, and higher educational requirements are making it more difficult to find and retain a career.

For sociology majors, these insights need not instill fear of those changes in the job market. Sociologists study social change, diverse communities and their interactions, and employ scientific methods to answer difficult social questions. Sociology will serve to provide those in-demand skills outlined above and prepare you for success in your future career. Sociology, being the study of social life, social change, and the social causes and consequences of human behavior, uses scientific approaches to address these core areas, while the humanities and the arts do not offer this scientific base.

Eight key skills of graduating sociology majors are as follows:

- Identify ethical issues in research
- Develop evidence-based arguments
- Evaluate different research methods
- Write a report understandable by non-sociologists
- Form causal hypotheses
- Use computer resources to develop reference list
- Interpret the results of data gathering
- Use statistical software
- Discuss percentages and significance in a two variable table

Starting to see the connection to those in-demand skills employers are looking for? Whether you are seeking a career in social services, counseling, administrative support, management, teaching, services, sales and marketing, social science research, or many other areas, sociology offers a competitive edge for new graduates entering the 21st century job market and provides valuable skills for both your personal and professional life.

This career information is paraphrased from "21st Century Careers with an Undergraduate Degree in Sociology", American Sociological Association, 2009, pp1-12.

MTSU offers a Master of Arts Degree in Sociology described in detail in the MTSU Graduate Catalog and Graduate Sociology Handbook at

http://www.mtsu.edu/soc/documents/SOC_HANDBOOK_2013.pdf

What can I do with a Master of Arts or Doctoral Degree (Ph.D.) in Sociology?

With advanced degrees, it is more likely that a job will have the title sociologist, but many opportunities exist--the diversity of sociological career ranges much farther than what you might find under "S" in the Sunday newspaper employment ads.

- Sociologists become high school teachers or faculty in colleges
- Sociologists enter the corporate, non-profit, and governments worlds as directors of research, policy analysts, consultants, human resource managers, and program managers.
- Practicing sociologists with advanced degrees may be called research analysts, survey researchers, gerontologists, statisticians, urban planners, community developers, criminologists, or demographers.
- Some MA and PhD sociologists obtain specialized training to become counselors, therapists, or program directors in social service agencies.

People with degrees in sociology may enter many careers, and the options are increasing. What is common to all of these careers? Underlying sociological training is the commitment to understand human relationships in every kind of social group.

There are two specific career paths available to graduate students through completion of one of our Graduate Certificate Programs. These programs can be completed alone or in conjunction with the Master of Arts degree.

Graduate Certificate in Gerontology (Dr. Brandon Wallace)

The certificate program in Gerontology provides supplementary education in gerontology for students preparing for careers in a broad range of positions. This program is designed to give those already working in the field an opportunity to enrich skills and knowledge and to provide further opportunities for career advancement. Requirements include core courses (6 hours) and electives (12 hours). http://catalog.mtsu.edu/preview_program.php?catoid=9&poid=2253

Graduate Certificate in Women's and Gender Studies (Director - Dr. Newtona Johnson or Dr. Vicky MacLean in Sociology) The certificate program in Women's and Gender Studies seeks to provide students with knowledge of fundamental issues in sex and gender and how these are reflected in culture across time; how they shape institutions as well as personal experience; how they interact with issues such as race, ethnicity, and socioeconomic class; how new ways of thinking about gender challenges the processes by which knowledge about human beings and our behavior is acquired, interpreted, and transmitted; and how to do research within the field and apply this knowledge to one's personal and professional life. Requirements include core courses (9 hours) and electives (9 hours). Although not housed within the Sociology Department, we support this certificate.
