

Robert W. McLean School of Music

George T. Riordan, Director
Wright Music Building 150

The McLean School of Music offers a Master of Arts degree in Music with specializations in collaborative piano (instrumental emphasis), collaborative piano (vocal emphasis), conducting, jazz studies, music composition, music composition for contemporary media, music education, musicology, and performance. A minor in Music is offered at the graduate level.

Applicants seeking admission to the Master of Arts degree must have completed an undergraduate degree in music with a GPA of at least 3.00. They must also submit scores from the general Graduate Record Examination (GRE) and three letters of recommendation.

Applicants intending to specialize in collaborative piano, conducting, jazz studies, or performance must audition. Applicants who do not pass the audition may be allowed, at the discretion of the faculty, to be admitted with probationary status for one semester and must register for MUAP 5020, Private Instruction. They must reaudition at the end of their first semester of study. Students who do not pass the audition on their second attempt will be excused from the program.

Applicants intending to specialize in music composition or music composition for contemporary media must submit recordings and scores of their compositions. Those intending to specialize in music education must submit a 30-minute video recording of themselves teaching. Applicants intending to specialize in musicology must submit two research papers of at least five pages in length, one of which is on a music topic.

Requirements for the Master of Arts in Music

- Before graduation, students must establish proficiencies in the areas required for the relevant specialization. (See curricula below for details.) Diagnostic examinations in music theory, music history, and diction will be scheduled during the first week of the first semester of study. Students who do not pass the diagnostic examinations should consult with the graduate coordinator to plan how to meet the requirements. Courses taken to meet proficiency requirements do not count toward the degree.
- Seventy percent of the total degree hours must be at the 6000 level.
- Prior to the completion of 24 semester hours, an Advancement to Candidacy Form must be filed with the Office of Graduate Studies.
- No earlier than the student's last semester of study, the student must pass both written and oral comprehensive examinations. Comprehensive examinations may be repeated once.
